

PROG EARS

This will most definitely end up in my top 5 for this year. I keep coming back to this one. Very listenable with lots of "catchy" tunes and excellent production. I just happened across it poking around the new releases on Bandcamp and, based on the cover art, I expected yet another prog metal album (not that there's anything wrong with that) but it certainly is not. Reminds me a bit of Sound of Contact (which is a very good thing).

One of the pleasant surprises of 2015!
(If you're 'slow' like me) This release requires multiple listens to fully appreciate what Patric has accomplished.
